New MPC President Says Education Should Be A Community Catalyst

A new Carmel resident is Dr. George J. Faul, president of Monterey Peninsula College since July 1. He and his wife, Patricia, their son, Robert, 11, and daughter Alison, seven, are living on Carmelo Street south of Ocean Avenue . . . and a puppy will join the family soon.

Monday, Dr. Faul told the Pine Cone that he believes the role of a college is to be "a catalyst for the whole community."

In order to bring about such a fusion, he would like to see "education taken out to the people" as well as being provided on the campus. This dissemination of college instruction could be accomplished, he says, for example, by college classes being taught in local schools or rented community halls in a program planned to reach both young people and "plus forty" adults.

"Some people are frightened of a college setting. We should go to them," he declares.

Education should make impacts on individuals, in Dr. Faul's opinion. He believes such impacts will challenge people to become intelligent citizens in a democracy instead of responding to "a Madison Avenue pitch . . . being told what to think." He sees a need for the development, through education, of principles as well as skills.

In the field of skills, Dr. Faul recognizes a college curriculum should provide for the onslaught of young people who must be educated to think and adapt in a more and more automated world. Intelligent use of "real" education will avoid serious social problems in our country; enable people to rearrange life goals, he states.

Older people threatened by the competition from youth, also the factor of increased leisure time, should be provided for in a college curriculum, too, he stresses.

"We can't ignore the fixed-income older people who are victims of history at this point," he declares.

Service areas, in which people deal with people, will more and more absorb workers in the future, he predicts. These service

Now the Fourth of July has gone thundering by, with its picnics and pompous parades, and the rummy-tums-tums of the music men's drums and the uniform glint they're arrayed in.

But it isn't the same — it's grown timidly tame, with political speeches eroded. There's safety instead of some kid blows his head off when bombs prematurely exploded.

I remember the deeds at community feasts, with the pie-eating contests and races; and the dance in the park which took place after dark, and the sly stolen kiss and embraces.

Oh, it isn't the murder and main I deplore, nor the noise — for we have to employ them. Though there's booze on the beaches and girls galore, yet I find I'm too old to enjoy them.

Editor's Column

This week Herb Vial saw a small red shoe fall off the roof of the car ahead of him. He retrieved it, caught up to the car at the next stoplight, and returned the shoe to the mother of its small owner. "What," said the lady to Herb, "did you do with the other one?"

Lest Admiral Fisher and other members of the Carmel Citizens Committee, who prepared a comprehensive report on annexation, or as they call it, unification, of Carmel and its environs, should have a similar reaction when they see this issue of the Pine Cone, we hasten to assure them there will be more coverage next week . . . if the Bach Festival leaves us enough space. Otherwise, the week after.

Some weeks ago the Pine Cone promised to bring all available information on annexation, pro and con, to its readers.

The report, partially covered in this issue, is entitled "The Carmel Citizens Committee Looks At the Future of the Community." This it does, and it brings forth the most important fact concerning annexation so far!

This is that a single government for the entire Carmel area would have greater power to preserve one of the most beautiful communities in the United States . . . if residents of the areas contiguous to Carmel were willing to pay a few dollars more per year tax money to enjoy the privileges of self-government.

Carmel Department Busiest Reports Fire Chief Smith

"Hounds, Hydrants and Holo-causts" is the provocative title of the annual report of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department handed to the city council by Fire Chief Robert E. Smith last night.

The 32-man department was more active last year than any other fire department in Monterey County, with the exception of Seaside, the report says.

Fire losses for the year amounted to $25,465 and $22,500 of this came from one residence fire. Automobile fires amounted to $1,960 of the total.

The department, during the past year answered 237 fire calls, 310 ambulance calls and put in a total of 8,448 man-hours work. Cost of this amounted to $63,989.86.

The greatest number of responses (109) to fire calls were the result of incidents involving automobiles. Second came 38 responses to reported residence

SCHOOL BOARD SPECIAL MEETING

There will be a special meeting of the Carmel Unified School District board of education this afternoon at 5 p.m. in the superintendent's office, Pescadero and First. To be considered is the employment of an attorney to defend the district in an appeal from the decision of Superior Court Judge, Anthony Brazil. He ruled last month that the district must provide school bus transportation next fall to the Paloma Creek area of Carmel Valley for eight children in the Manjares and Wallace families.

Estimated cost of this transportation is $875 per pupil.

Citizens Committee Report Says NOW Is Time For Annexation

If Carmel is to be saved from the fate of many another once-lovely place, action is needed now to unify the entire area into a strong single community dedicated to the conservation of its scenic resources, also the retention of its residential character and special charm, a report on annexation which will shortly be mailed to all members of the Carmel Citizens Committee, states.

The comprehensive unification study, on which the report is based, covers many details on taxation, finances, areas to be annexed, police and fire protection, statistics and annexation procedure, all gathered by the committee.

According to the report, it is no longer possible to distinguish the city of Carmel from the larger urban region surrounding it on three sides and, although the growth of adjacent residential neighborhoods has progressed in an orderly manner for years, it is now showing signs of turning into a suburban sprawl.

"It is now time to consider seriously the unification of Carmel-by-the-Sea and its environs into a single entity, served by a single zoning plan, and a single government capable and willing to preserve the qualities desired by the residents of this area," the report emphasizes.

Only those who reside in Carmel and its environs should undertake the necessary steps to preserve the attractiveness and unique character that distinguishes the Carmel area as a quality residential community, and these persons should assume the responsibility of unification at the earliest date, is advice given in the report.

Defined as natural boundaries for the unification are Pescadero Canyon and Del Monte Forest on the north, Carmel River on the south, the ocean on the west, and greenbelt areas on the east.

The report recognizes that some residents of Carmel, for emotional or sentimental reasons, will not favor unification. On the other hand, some residents of the unincorporated neighborhoods adjacent to the city will not favor unification either.

Advantages to both areas through unification are listed as follows: (1) a larger tax base available to a larger city; (2) improved fire protection with city apparatus resulting in lower insurance rates to all areas within the larger city's boundaries; (3) prompt and most capable city police protection to these same areas; the priceless advantages of self-government to all; (4) availability of all residents of the enlarged area to serve the community government; (5) a greater capacity to protect the community against undesirable developments, commercial or otherwise; (6) a similar capacity to resist economic pressures from large industries and metropolitan centers; (7) the power to preserve one of the most beautiful communities in the United States.

The Carmel Citizens Committee devoted many months to the collection of needed information on which to base the above statements, according to Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.), president. This has resulted in a compilation and tabulation of a

City Council Accepts United California Bank Bid For Sunset Bonds

Four hours of deliberation last night was not time enough for the city council to cover all items on their agenda. In consequence, they will consider remaining items on July 22.

Major items disposed of last night included the sale of Sunset School bonds; adoption of an urgency ordinance controlling auction sales, also an anti-litter ordinance; authorizing expenditure of $6,075 to renovate and repair the Forest Theater; and leasing of the Theater-in-the-Ground under the Forest Theater stage to the Community Theater for one year.

Frank Putnam, chairman of the Sunset Committee, which is charged with exploring all possible uses of Sunset School when it becomes city property, stymied approval of plans for a new police station and corporation yard at a cost of $225,000.

SUNSET BONDS

Nine bids were received for the Sunset School bonds. Each was analyzed and verified by representatives of Stone and Youngberg, the city's financial consultants. Most advantageous bid to the city, and which was accepted by the council, came from United California Bank which offered to buy the bonds to finance the city's purchase of Sunset School from the Carmel Unified School District at a 3.119344 rate of interest and a premium of $121.

This will cost the city a net total interest of $273,566.50 over a 20-year period. Added to the $550,000 purchase price and the $25,000 necessary to handle the bonds, the net interest will bring the cost of financing the Sunset School purchase, with motel tax income, to $848,445.50.

ORDINANCES

The urgency interim ordinance controlling auction sales went into effect immediately after its passage last night. No firm, corporation or person may now conduct an auction sale in Carmel without a use permit from the planning commission. Also, the commission may impose restrictions and conditions before issuing the permit.

This action was taken to prevent any auction being held that may, in any way, be considered in conflict with the city's zoning law. A time limit of one year was set, and may be extended, if studies on auctions by the planning commission and council are not completed in the 12-month period.

The anti-litter ordinance will go into effect in 30 days time. It prohibits any accumulation of garbage or waste on private property, also the storage of disused household appliances or machinery on private property, if these articles are visible to the public or neighbors.

In order that the city-owned

Community Invited To Little League Ceremonies Sunday

Carmel's Little League season will close Sunday with ceremonies beginning at noon at the league's playground near Carmel Mission Basilica. Events will include the presentation of pins and awards earned this year, election of a board of directors for next year and a Father-Daughter game. A bat, ball and mitt will be given to the holders of lucky numbers.

Hamburgers, hot dogs, soft drinks, candy and ice cream will be sold at cost and no tickets will be issued.

All interested persons in the community are invited to the ceremonies by Barney Laiolo, Little League president this season.

MPC BOARD CHAIRMAN

Mark Raggett was reelected to a second term as chairman of the Monterey Peninsula Junior College Board last night.

During the subsequent board meeting, Dr. James L. Rhodes was appointed dean of instruction at MPC. He comes here from the University of Texas where he has been assistant professor of education since 1962.

His position is second only to that of MPC's president, Dr. George J. (Bob) Faul.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

These seem to be the summer doldrums, with little to excite in the new books, and few there are of them at all, at all! An interesting one is The Great Shakespeare Jubilee by Christian Deelman. Festivals are being held in many places now but this is the account of the first Shakespeare festival which was organized in 1769 by David Garrick at Stratford. Endpapers are maps, and illustrations show the buildings erected for the festival and various scenes from the plays. Garrick was England's greatest actor. This account follows him through the festival and shows the beginning of various Shakespeare cults which grew up thereafter.

In our small display case in the main reading room we have a very fine lithograph of Shakespeare, which also has small likenesses of David Garrick, and of Edwin Booth, the American Shakespearean actor. We found the picture in our only store-room, a small closet in the basement. It was mounted on a large board like a drawing board and whoever did the mounting tacked it so profusely it seems almost to be framed in nail heads. We left it as it was and merely put it in the display case. We think it very handsome. The artist was Leopold Flamery.

We have two new books about President Johnson, the one a biography by Kurt Singer and the other the story of his war experience. This one is by Martin Caidin and is entitled The Mission. The biography is called Lyndon Baines Johnson, Man of Reason. These books are sympathetic without propagandizing. Perhaps mention should be made here of the fact that the biography is printed in good type for the reader without sight difficulties.

In these days of almost frenzied emphasis on physical fitness the next book should find a ready audience. It is Gymnastics for Girls by Eric Hughes who is on the staff of the physical education department of the University of Washington. The book is full of illustrations, all of which help to make the exercises appear very strenuous and health giving... also tiring. This book is for girls, as the title states.

Some time ago a man named Euell Gibbons wrote a book called Stalking the Wild Asparagus which was a happy combination of good writing and interesting subject matter, for it described foods found in the woods and fields. Author Gibbons now has a new book entitled Stalking the Blue Eyed Scallop. Once again he has done a smooth-reading book with many recipes and this time their ingredients are the plants and animals to be found along the seashore, which is just where we live. A nice coincidence and we hope you enjoy the goodies you can concoct after reading this book.

For a quiet afternoon, try your public library. Well anyway, it's quieter than it is out on the streets of the city during the tourist season.

David Abel To Play In Aptos Festival

Violinist David Abel will play in three concerts of the Cabrillo Music Festival in Aptos, August 21-23 and 28-30.

He will be soloist in Mozart's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra No. 5" and appear with cellist Eva Heinitz and pianist Ludwig Olshansky in Beethoven's "Archduke Trio." He will also play in the Brahms "Clarinet Quintet."

David Abel lives at Big Sur. He has just accepted the concertmastership of the Oakland Symphony Orchestra. Last year he held the same position with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and was awarded the orchestra's "most valuable player" award.

He will continue his concert tours and already is booked to play with major orchestras across the nation.

Information about the Cabrillo Festival, also tickets, may be obtained by writing to festival offices at 6500 Soquel Drive, Aptos, or by telephoning 408-475-6000.

Camilla Doe Tells About Her Life As A Teacher On Taiwan

By Carolyn Elstob

Returned from a year's stay in the Orient, Camilla Doe, the daughter of Major General Jens A. Doe (USA ret.), and Mrs. Doe, brings a glowing account of her experiences and friends there.

During last summer she toured with a group, visiting Japan, Hong Kong, Cambodia and the great Angkor Wat temple with its gigantic sculptures of the ninth century Khmer civilization, long extinct. The party went on to Saigon, Manila, Bangkok and Singapore.

On the island of Taiwan Camilla joined Chinese friends and assumed her duties on the staff of the Taipei American High School as a teacher of art, design and mechanical drawing.

"My classes were indeed international," Camilla told, "while the school was started by U. S. Army officers stationed there with their families, there were many Europeans and Chinese too. My 'adopted parents' long-time friends of my own parents, were the Moon Chens. Mr. Chen had been a member of the Flying Tigers Squadron. With Mr. and Mrs. Chen, I visited beautiful and historic spots rarely seen by Americans."

"The language used in the school was English. Living conditions were really primitive. I think the sewage system, or rather lack of it bothered me most at first. Babies and clothing were washed in the streams that flowed right on into the fields where vegetables were growing. This meant that every single growing thing had to be washed and washed before cooking—but this inconvenience was minor."

"My school life and my social life were interwoven. Unless one has really lived in the Taipei of today it would be almost impossible to understand the atmosphere. Within three hours flying time, over the water, is the mainland of Red China. The parents of many of my young friends were virtual prisoners there, and had been, for more than a decade."

Camilla told tales of young Chinese students, eager above all things to come to the United States, for "study and freedom."

"It is not only the goal of the young people," she said, "their parents, who know that once their sons and daughters leave they can never return, will make any sacrifice to send them to freedom and wider horizons."

"Chinese teenagers and young men and women are really not very different in their enthusiasms than the same age group right here. They copy our hair styles. They love American fashions and great crowds of them dote upon the Beatles!"

"For most part though, their cultural background, the atmosphere in which they must live and their troubled political world, has conditioned their thinking. Their ambition for education, their intense desire to 'get away,' are the basic fibers of their strong gentle characters."

Camilla's parents went to visit her at Christmastime. General

Shaws Home From Europe

Architect Will Shaw and his wife, Virginia, toured southern Europe for 100 days. Definitely not conformists, their wanderings took them many times off the beaten tourist tracks.

After three days in Lisbon, the Shaws went on to Madrid, "which far surpassed the travel folders," Virginia said. "We reached Granada during Holy Week where the processions of cowed, sandalled monks bearing ages-old religious figures that glittered with jewels were unbelievably impressive. There were fireworks, too, and ancient chants — it all seemed other world—other time."

The Shaws were in Seville for Easter Sunday which they found amazingly quiet. All along the way Will's major sight-seeing interest was in the churches, palazzos and monuments. Virginia was responsible for the finding of food, drink and market places.

They found Rome, as a spectacle, far outdistanced their anticipation. Despite the current problem of too many automobiles that crowd the magnificent avenues, Virginia and Will agreed that the glories of the city are undying.

After three weeks in Rome they traveled leisurely to Positano on the Amalfi coast, a little known fishing village, unspoiled by tourist traffic. It was there that they met the John Steinbecks (quite unexpectedly) "And it was just right," Virginia commented, "it was Will's birthday and we celebrated in royal style."

In Athens the Shaws met Louise and Harlan Watkins, the first Americans to build a home on Mykonos Island, "a heavenly spot," Virginia reports. It was in Athens that the Shaws met the Charles O'Garas too.

"It was one of the happy aspects of our trip, that we were constantly running into other Carmelites," Virginia told. In Athens Will had an opportunity to visit with the head of the world's largest city planning organization and to discuss professional views dear to his heart.

Going on to Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, the Shaws had an opportunity to see a satellite nation in day-to-day action. They found the ancient city fascinating, the people friendly and economically content.

Salzburg, Florence and Venice were on their itinerary, too, and it was in Venice that they picked up their car. "Southern France and Provence were like a fairy tale come true ... and Paris out-glittered my most romantic dreams! It was there, strolling along, that we met Bob Radcliffe and his wife, Bob, some years ago was on the Monterey Peninsula Herald staff. We talked "shop" and feasted as the Parisians do on gala occasions, and that means all superlatives!!

Virginia and Will returned to Carmel, "In time for Fourth of July on the beach—we wouldn't miss that for worlds," Virginia concluded.

Jeffers Family Leaves

Donnan Jeffers, with their children, Lindsay, Una, Donnan and Robinson, board a freighter next week to sail through the Panama Canal to Europe, for at least a year's stay. Landing in Antwerp, the family will "vagabond" through Europe with no set itinerary until September. Then they will cross the channel to Ireland where they have already leased a home in County Waterford and where the children will attend school.

Stay With the Farris

Mrs. Nancy Emmons of Mill Valley and her three children spent the Fourth of July holiday in Carmel as the guests of Senator and Mrs. Fred Farr.

All Boys This Week

Todd William Wakefield, arrived June 23, was greeted by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Milan Wakefield and his 16-months-old brother, James Bryan. He "weighed in" at a champion eight pounds, three ounces.

Born June 27, Jordan Wesley Franke, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Franke, has a sister, Cameron, age 10 years. His two brothers are, Reed, who is eight, and Anthony, who is going on three.

Hans Theodore Arenz, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arenz, was born on June 28 and received a really whopping welcome from his 10 brothers and sisters who are, Elaine, Tre, Annabelle and Heidi; Tom, Brad, Scott, Eric Todd and Rick. The Arenz have just recently come to make their home in Carmel, from Portland, Oregon.

Carmel Visitors

Houseguests of Mrs. James Southard Parker are her niece, Mrs. James Aughten and her daughter, Deborah, of Dwight, Illinois, and Miss Mary Jane Parr of Ottawa, Canada. The visitors will be honor guests at a barbecue on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand d'Avenas.

Complete Sellout

Mrs. Leonard Klene, reservations chairman for the L'Alliance Francaise of Monterey Peninsula gala dinner party celebration of Bastille Day reports, "Completely sold out! Three days before the deadline for reservations I had to begin saying 'I regret', we just cannot make room for more in Ring's restaurant for the evening of our gourmet dinner and entertainment on July 12."

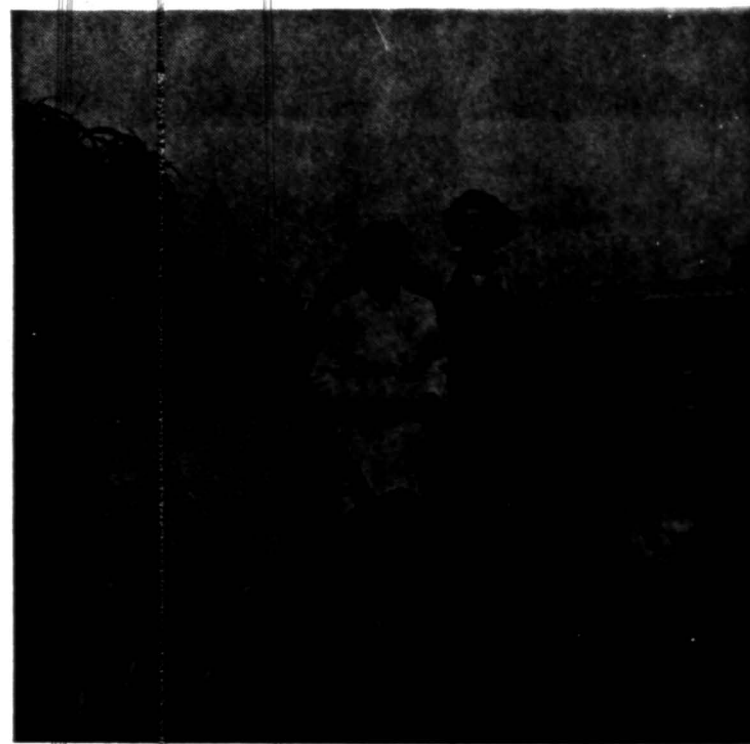

Co-chairmen, Mrs. August Armanasco and Mrs. James I. Hathaway, responsible for co-ordinating the menu, have been deluged with L'Alliance volunteers offering to provide the French cuisine.

Among the first to make their reservations, and all bringing guests, were, President Mrs. Jerome E. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Armanasco; Mr. and Mrs. Klene; Colonel and Mrs. Hathaway, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson M. Leoni. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edelman, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Von Richter, Mr. and Mrs. Gaspard Weiss, Mrs. M. Simpson and Dr. and Mrs. Ivan Issvoran.

Also attending the festivities will be, Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand d'Avenas, Mr. and Mrs. John Dowdakin, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bauer, William Cane and Andre Degremont.

Also, Captain and Mrs. E. S. L. Goodwin, Mrs. Germaine Olive, Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Ferro, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Court-eol, Mr. and Mrs. George Willox, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paroutaud, Mr. and Mrs. M. Simpson; Mrs. George Vye and the Misses Clementine Herlax and Adrienne Dufour.

Additional reservations have been made by Mr. and Mrs. Gal-

With a background of Pacific Ocean Mrs. Edward Langston (left) and Mrs. Leonard Redfield, co-chairmen of the refreshment committee, confer over details of refreshments to be served during the 13th annual MPVS House and Garden Tour. The tour, on Wednesday (10 a.m. until 5 p.m.) will benefit the Visiting Nurses Association of the Monterey Peninsula.

latin Powers; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bunn; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elton, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann, the Reverend and Mrs. H. M. M. Nicholas, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Blaga, Miss Lucille Ray, Miss Kira Ivanowski and Jean Gabriel.

Still more are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Alt, Mr. and Mrs. Irby Bourriague, Colonel and Mrs. Roger O. Williams, Major and Mrs. Harry G. Doherty, Colonel and Mrs. Chauncey Holland.

Dinner will be served at 5 p.m. to be followed by skits, songs, music and general dancing. Among the featured performers will be, Bertrand d'Avenas, William Cane, Mrs. Richard (Lynn) Mack, Reverend H. M. M. Nicholas and Lucille Ray.

Commands Submarine

In formal change of command ceremonies recently in Hawaii, Lieutenant Commander William von Christierson assumed command of the submarine USS Cusk based at Pearl Harbor.

Prior to taking over his new command, Lieutenant Commander Christierson served as assistant to the operations officer and anti-submarine warfare officer on the staff of the commander of the Hawaiian Sea Frontier.

He grew up in Carmel, graduated from Carmel High School then attended the U.S. Navy Academy at Annapolis and graduated with the Class of 1951.

Betsy Helm Feted

With her marriage to James Bailey Hansen just three days ahead, Betsy Helm, daughter of the Walter M. Helms, is just about the busiest and most feted girl in Carmel.

Daphne Craig, one of Betsy's chosen bridesmaids was hostess at a bridal shower for her on Sunday. The patio barbecue was attended by many of Betsy's former school friends.

Tonight the Mark Thomases, whose daughter, Mrs. David Ogilvie (Julie), will be one of Betsy's bridesmaids are hosting a dinner party in their Carmel Valley home for the entire wedding party and family friends of the bride's parents.

Following tomorrow night's rehearsal Mrs. Harriet Hansen, mother of Betsy's fiancé, will entertain the wedding party at dinner at Neptune's Table on Monterey Wharf.

Betsy and Jim will be married on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Carmel Mission Basilica. A reception in the President's House of the Mark Thomas Inn will follow the ceremony.

PLANNING COMMISSION

Set for hearing before the Monterey County Planning Commission sitting as a board of adjustments on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. will be requests for variances for a reduction in side yard setback requirements from Ephraim Doner of Carmel Highlands and a reduction in building site requirements from Jan Brewer of Gorda; also the request of Everett Banfield for a use permit for a tract office at Garrapata Creek.

Arline B. Nielsen

Following a brief illness, Mrs. Arline B. Nielsen, a resident of this area for the past 30 years, died Saturday in her Carmel Knolls home.

Mrs. Nielsen was the wife of Harold L. Nielsen, owner of Nielsen Brothers Market. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Basham, who now reside in Palo Alto, Mrs. Nielsen was born in Berkeley, January 31, 1909. She was a member of the Eastern Star, Carmel Chapter 581.

In addition to her husband and parents, Mrs. Nielsen is survived by a daughter Mrs. Sharon L. Bennett of Oakland; a son, Gary Nielsen of Berkeley; a brother, Merle Basham of Palo Alto; and a sister, Mrs. Thelma Studley of Los Angeles.

Private Episcopal services were held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Paul Funeral Chapel. Burial was in El Carmelo Cemetery.

June H. Cole

Stricken with a heart attack on Saturday, Mrs. June H. Cole, a summer resident of Carmel for the past several years, died on Sunday.

Mrs. Cole was born in Fairbanks, Alaska, on June 3, 1913 and was taken by her family to live in Berkeley at the age of two years.

For 28 years Mrs. Cole, employed as a librarian in the Berkeley Public Library, and her husband, William E. Cole, an associate of the Westinghouse Corporation, lived in that city.

Mrs. Cole leaves no close relatives except her husband. Private services were held on Monday in the Little-Chapel-by-the-Sea.

COMING GOLF EVENTS

A new event in the junior section of the UVS California Women's Golf Circuit is the North-South Team Match to be played at the Del Monte Golf Course Sunday, for the Barbara Beach Thompson Memorial Trophy.

Studio's 'Once Upon A Mattress' Hilarious, Enchanting, Romantic

Had Carmel's Hilary Teague been available to New York theatre last winter instead of majoring in the history of art at George Washington University in Washington D.C. her parents, the Donald Teagues, would right now, undoubtedly have a musical comedy celebrity of whom to boast.

We saw (and heard—oh how we heard) Hilary and a super cast of a dozen-and-a-half splendid actors and actresses, singers and dancers, romp through the Studio Theatre production of the musical fantasy "Once Upon a Mattress" in their opening performance on Friday night.

Based upon the fairy tale of the princess who suffered a wild attack of insomnia because a pea concealed under the mattress made the whole night lurid and lumpy, the twentieth century spoof of the fifteenth century legend is enchanting, hilarious and romantic.

The story-book tale is told by Terry Eby as the Minstrel. Classically costumed in the 15th century garb of court minstrel, Mr. Eby, possessed of a beautiful speaking voice, chronicles the doings of the slightly mad court with histrionic nuance.

We are not going to tell the story—it would spoil your fun, because assuredly you will see and hear for yourself.

In major roles were Tom McKenzie as the Wizard. His magic, his glittering robes, his downright wicked scheming, gave us very satisfactory creeps.

The two star vocalists of the evening were soprano Anita Gertner, as the naive and bewitching Lady Larken whose love slightly overcomes her discretion, and her knight, Sir Harry, portrayed by Bob Floeter, a fine baritone. They were particularly appealing in their two duets, "In a Little While" and "Yesterday I Loved You."

It was a rare treat to have dancer-choreographer Dale Lefler in an acting role. As the Jester he gave a highly polished performance. His solo soft shoe dance was a triumph in intricate footwork and grace... and he sang and hissed or rather shushed to audience plaudits.

The Ladies of the Court and their knights, played by Shelly Miller, Sharon Guild, Judy Carr and Judy Messier, Ed Burns, Bill Nelson, Jim Sweeney and Jeff Cocks, danced, sang and romanced, feasting the audience with their picture book beauty, their youth and luxurious period costumes.

And the stars! There were four, giving, in each case we thought, the top performances of their careers.

Mildred Cushing, character actress and producer of plays for children (with adult casts), as the stony-hearted, scheming, strident Queen Aggravain, was priceless! Long experienced in little theater in her native Vancouver, she kept the Studio audience right on the edge of giggling terror as she orated her malevolent intentions to blast young love. And her makeup! Her jewel-encrusted hairdo (by Nick Le Feuvre, Jr.), her deep-shadowed eyes, her royal robes, all beggar description!

Clifford Berry as her mute consort, henpecked and bedevilled, slyly benevolent, with an eye for feminine curves, was just great! Cliff did get a chance to talk before the evening ended, but his miming in the telling of the facts of life and marriage is well worth several times over, the price of admission!!

As Prince Dauntless bent upon marrying, but on too bright about it all, Peter De Bono gave a champion characterization. A bit of a stupid oaf, under the thumb of his cruel, cruel mother, Peter injects pathos and comedy appeal into the role and we wager you'll love him before the final curtain. And when his Princess flings him (literally and liberally) flat on his back, time after time, you will mingle your groans with rollicking laughter.

Finally, the star of this roster of stars—Hilary Teague, as the Princess Winifred, the role made internationally famous by Carol Burnett, is zany, irresistibly funny, lovely to look at with her "cockeyed" crown topping her mad mop of hair... and inexhaustible. She emoted, danced and sang with all the assurance of a star loved by her audience... She was! A June '64 university graduate, talented Hilary has a difficult choice ahead, whether to make the theater her profession or to devote her interests to fine arts. Let us hope she manages to do both, we wouldn't put it past her!

Studio Theatre Producers Royden Martin and Betty Hackett with Director-Designer William Graves, choreographer Dale Lefler and musical director Gary Carver are celebrating the opening of the Studio's seventh season of musical comedy. Through the past years their standard has been highly professional. In "Once Upon a Mattress" they are topping their best.

Samyra and Tamyra, three-year-old elephants, visited the Carmel Rancho shopping center Friday morning on the way to the circus in Pacific Grove planned to benefit the Monterey Peninsula Council for Retarded Children.

Donald Craig Tells About Travels In Spain And Portugal

Recently returned from a sabbatical year spent studying the teaching of foreign languages in schools in the British Isles and on the continent, Donald Craig, instructor in Spanish at Carmel High School, found that Carmel schools were ahead of most schools abroad in foreign language instruction.

On his way back to Carmel he visited 18 schools across the United States pursuing the same study.

Last week, the Pine Cone published an account of his travels in Britain, the Netherlands and France.

Then came Spain . . . and almond trees in bloom everywhere, also sunshine after months of overcast skies and rain.

In Spain, Mr. Craig, a member of the Monterey History and Art Association, had an opportunity to visit areas whence the conquistadors came to the Americas, also towns associated with the Spanish past of California, and could use his Spanish in talking to the people.

Following is a report on his travels with Mrs. Craig in Spain and Portugal which began in January of this year.

The Balearic Islands and Father Serra's birthplace in Petra on Mallorca were first visited by Mr. and Mrs. Craig.

Accommodations in Palma were half-price and only the "wily French" appeared to be sharing this off-season experience with the Craigs.

Also in Spain, the Craigs visited Valencia, Murcia, Grenada and the Alhambra "in the rain."

On the way to Malaga they saw snow-capped mountains, brimming brooks between green fields, and white villages perched "like swallows' nests" on the Sierra Nevada. Olive trees were everywhere and fleecy clouds. They also observed a pine reforestation project in this area.

After the Alcazar, the village of Ronda was on the Craigs' itinerary. Carmelite Donald Teague had told them to ask for a room with a view in a hotel there built on the edge of a gorge. The Craigs were given one. Mr. Craig stepped out onto the porch opening off the room, then terrified, crept back inside.

"The drop from that balcony was 400 feet," he says.

"Jerez is a series of wine cellars," Mr. Craig reports of the city famous for sherry. Cadiz came next, then Sevilla and the narrow streets, patios filled with fountains, birds and baskets of flowering plants in the Barrio Santa Cruz.

Italica, where the remains of three civilizations, one on top of the other, can be seen, including Moorish mosaic pavements later trod by Roman legionnaires delighted the Craigs.

Cordoba, Merida, Vadoz and into Portugal were next. In this country, the Craigs saw cowboys wearing leather sheepskin chaps with the fleece outside, then cloaks similarly made. Also came Lisbon and an "unrivaled folk art museum."

Here also was a fountain with 40 changes of sprays controlled by playing a console and lighted in hues of red, blue and purple.

A country fair outside Oporto intrigued the Craigs before they reentered Spain to see Compostela, a national monument, and Salamanca. The latter city was the home of the Count of Monterey for whom Monterey was named.

Avila, Madrid, Segovia and the Basque provinces came after this before the Craigs returned to England and the United States. They spent Holy Week in Northern Spain.

"I got back to Carmel just in time for graduation," Mr. Craig reports. He joined the faculty of Carmel High School when it was first opened over 20 years ago and wished to bid the Class of

Symphony Concert Next Free Program At Forest Theater

The Forest Theater will again resound to the notes of a 30-piece symphonic orchestra on Sunday afternoon. The Carmel Arts Commission is presenting another in the series of concerts begun last summer under the direction of John Gosling. Admission is free, and the community is urged to turn out "en masse" and "en famille", there being something on the program for every taste and room enough on the theater grounds for even the youngest of music-lovers.

The entirely professional orchestra will be paid from a musicians' union fund. A proposal now before the city council would provide city funds for a second concert at the end of the summer.

Two soloists will be featured. Mozart's third concerto for French horn and orchestra will be performed by Christopher Leuba, of the Minneapolis Symphony. Ray Fabrizio, of our own county symphony, will play the Vivaldi Concerto for piccolo and orchestra, in C major. Beethoven's First Symphony and "Dance Rhythms," by Riegger, round out the program.

Sunday afternoons at the Forest Theater have proved very popular over the past three years, the only voices raised against them being those of the dogs in the neighborhood. Frederick Rider, manager of this week's concert, has expressed the hope that people living near the theater will take their pets indoors before three o'clock on Sunday, when the program begins.

1964 godspeed as they left the classrooms to which Mr. Craig will return in September.

He will be able to tell his students that he talked to not more than nine Americans during his months abroad and the people in every country he visited were courteous to him and Mrs. Craig.

He will also be prepared to tell Carmel High students that they have educational opportunities far beyond those offered European students. In the countries he visited abroad, only a small select group ever achieve a college education, he observed.

Teagues Come Home

The Donald Teagues celebrated the Fourth, even though they didn't wave sparklers or shiver on the beach. Mr. and Mrs. Teague have just returned from the east coast with Hilary, whose graduation at George Washington University was the real reason for the journey. Following graduation festivities the trio went on to New York, Boston and Cape Cod, visiting theatres and art galleries along the way. They returned to Carmel just in time to greet Linda, who took the long weekend off from her job in San Francisco. Hilary will be at home for the entire summer, busy with her favorite avocation, acting, singing and dancing.

Picnic Honors Salgos

Members of the Carmel Bach Festival Chorus held a picnic at Indian Village in Del Monte Forest on Sunday in honor of the festival's director-conductor, Sando Salgo, and his wife, Priscilla.

Mrs. Lellani Hill, as chairman, planned the potluck party and the program of activities. Philip Abernati not only provided the steaks, he broiled them as well. Winner of the treasure hunt was awarded five pounds of caramels that disappeared so quickly, once in the hands of the children who "came along" with their parents, that it was impossible to find out who the winner was. In the volley ball contest all singers agreed that the maestro, so gentle with his baton, had a wicked swing.

The picnic was a return compliment to the Salgos who were hosts at a similar affair last year with chorus members as their guests.

Moving to Carmel

Already in Carmel as the guest of Mrs. William Cullinan, is Gerry Barron, an attorney who has come from the San Francisco area to practice law with a Monterey firm. As soon as summer

After spending the summer working in a San Francisco bank, Denise Mallette (above) will enroll at the College of San Mateo with plans to transfer to Stanford University. The 17-year-old Carmel girl was awarded one of the 11 scholarships given this year by the California Labor Federation. She will attend the federation's biennial convention in San Francisco in August and be honored in a special ceremony, also receive her $500 award.

Denise graduated in June from Junipero Memorial High School where she was a member of the national honor society, edited the school's literary magazine, "The Net," served on the staff of the school's newspaper, was active in the Mission Club, the school band and with the majorettes.

school is over, Mrs. Barron will join him here with their son, Gerry, and daughter, Mary.

The Barrons formerly lived here and have been frequent visitors. They are delighted with the prospect of becoming permanent residents and have begun house-hunting, also searching for a home for Mary's mare and expected pony.

MPC Dean's List

Twenty-four Carmel students were named on the Spring Dean's List at Monterey Peninsula Junior College.

High honors (grade point average of 3.5-3.99) were awarded to Celine M. Fok, Kay Suno, James MacAllister and Joseph Parga.

Honors (grade point average 3.0-3.49) were earned by Frederick Allen, Salvatore A. Balbo, Nancy L. Baxter, Lindsay A. Brooke, James M. Chapman, Stanley Cummings, Joanna S. Dwyer, William J. Eaton, Diana K. Farr, John A. Gualteri, Helga S. Gunn, Sally J. Hammond, Gerald Henares, Bruce H. Hyndman, Candy L. Knapp, Rolf E. Lange, John S. Messersmith, Nancy S. Mouber, Lois A. Spencer and Allan S. Tam.

Back From Tennessee

Home for the summer, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen Russell (Diana Law) are happily ensconced in the Hartland Laws' guest cottage. All the family are delighted because the young couple, who have been living in Tennessee, are planning to remain in California. Allen plans to teach and is still in the stage of making up his mind as to where, though both he and Diana declare it will be in the state, not too far from Carmel.

Fashion Tea

Mrs. R. G. Booty of Carmel Point will give a different sort of fashion tea in her lovely home this afternoon. Her co-hostess, Dorothy Dean Stevens, owner of Footlights and Fancy, will give an informal showing of the original models created by Lee Harrell, fashion designer whose studios are in Hong Kong and Beverly Hills. Miss Harrell, said to be the only American resident designer in Hong Kong, uses the luxurious fabrics of the Orient in the creation of elegant spectator sports clothes for the American woman. Recently she was the guest of the president of the Philippines during a festival in Manila where her originals were featured.

Today's tea is invitational, with friends of Mrs. Booty and Mrs. Stevens modeling. However, Miss Harrell, who plans to fly to Carmel from Beverly Hills, promises that the trunkful of her originals will be on view in Footlights and Fancy through next week.

Bon Voyage Party

Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand d'Avenas celebrated the Fourth of July with a buffet and barbeque in their home beside Carmel beach. It was a bon voyage party for the Donnan Jeffers who are packing their trunks and going off to Ireland.

With their four children in tow, the honor guests were greeted by the Arnold Bradleys of Carmel Valley, Peg Palmer Burrows of Chicago, with her hostess, Mrs. Charles Reed, Mrs. James Parker (Mrs. d'Avenas' mother), the Yvan Noperts and Mr. and Mrs. Max Panzer. Those who had children brought them along and while the adults enjoyed the buffet and the spectacular view from the drawing room windows, the youngsters celebrated with an outdoor barbeque and plenty of fireworks.

Mona Williams Home

Mrs. Henry Meade (Mona) Williams has just returned from a six-weeks whirl of visiting with her family and old friends on the East Coast. A particularly exciting high point of her stay was the houseparty in Noroton, Connecticut, which was a reunion with her brother and three sisters, the first time in 22 years that they had all four been together.

"And a second gala was when Lacy and Jack (Mr. and Mrs. John Faia III) and their tiny daughter, Melissa, arrived from Carmel," Mona reports.

"I had an apartment on the edge of Greenwich Village. Lacy's brother, Christopher, with his wife and baby son, Farrel, joined us. The young people and their little people had a wonderful time. Then they all set off for 'the island' off the coast of Maine."

The island has never had a proper name, but it was purchased by Henry Williams's father and has been a family rendezvous each summer through three generations. With the arrival of the children of Chris and Lacy the fourth generation is upholding the Williams family tradition.

Taking time out from social doings, Mona visited her publishers who are eager to publish her recent novel "The Company Girls" at an early date. Also discussed was her novel-poem, still in the writing.

Altura Arrives

A telephone call to Mrs. Dorothy Carmalt on July 4 from her son, Ken Agle, informed her that the schooner, Altura, on which he set sail for Hawaii had arrived in Honolulu that morning, 16 days after leaving Monterey.

Also aboard the Altura were Charlotte Townsend of Carmel, Skipper Bruce Harris, his wife, Liz, and her daughter, Kira.

Ken will remain aboard the Altura for a trip to other Hawaiian islands and plans to stay for a time on Hawaii before coming home in time to resume studies at Franklin and Marshall University in Pennsylvania.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

Hiking, fishing, swimming, camping under the stars, listening to night sounds of coyote, fox and owl, was the happy lot of 21 Girl Scouts and four adults, who traveled the trails of the Santa Lucia Mountains during the past two weeks.

The trip is an annual one, made with back pack and burro. The first, four years ago, was so highly successful that each year the number of girls participating, the areas covered, and the number of days have been increased to meet the demand for this extraordinary experience made available to qualified, teenage, Girl Scouts.

Two weeks ago the Scouts arrived at Camp Cawatre, situated in the Arroyo Seco on the Eastern slopes of the Santa Lucias near Greenfield. They came from Carmel, Monterey, Santa Cruz, Watsonville, Salinas, Aptos and Soledad. There was a training program, prior to departure into the Los Padres National Forest and the Ventana Wild Area, which included the selection and packaging of foods, instruction in packing of personal gear (sleeping bags, clothing and other personal articles), lessons in caring for and saddling of burros, and then a "trial hike" of four miles with each girl carrying a back pack, and each having an opportunity to lead and handle a burro on the trail.

As the group left Camp Cawatre, for the first day of their wilderness adventure, their's was an impressive-looking pack train, 21 girls, their leader, counselors and guide, seven burros and a German shepherd dog. The first night camp was made at Willow Springs and the following night at South Fork on the Sur River. Other camping areas were at Pine Valley, Cienga and Wildcat Camp. During the days of hiking and the days in camp, the members of the burro pack trip had the delightful and interesting experience of visiting Indian caves, learning of the flora and fauna of these coastal mountains (for here is the unusual meeting and blending of the living things of the north, south and east). The yucca (sometimes called the Lord's Candle) was noted and photographed. Observed, too, was the water ouzel, that lovable, joyous little bird that is found in the high country of the Sierra along its waterfalls and rushing streams, and is found here, skirting the rocks and rushing waters of the crystal, clean, cold streams that abound in these little explored mountains. For the first time, members of the group saw the rare and graceful Santa Lucia fir that is found nowhere else in the world but in the mountains of the Carmel back country.

A highlight of this wilderness adventure was an evening spent at Pine Valley when the girls discovered a great rock, with natural amphitheater, a perfect place to play Indian games, here in the midst of the Indian country. Later in the evening, back in camp, tribal dances and songs were continued and the broad peaceful, pine-surrounded valley was filled with joyful sounds.

Your Sur Coast correspondent has had the rewarding and happy experience of being a part of these back country trips for Girl Scouts since their inception. Owner of the Ventana pack station and Ventana trail trips, Anthony C. Zufich, is guide for these trips. He is an individual of long experience in working with young people, as a school teacher in Alaska, and as guide for numerous groups in the Santa Lucia Mountains. He has been associated with the United States Fish and Wild Life Service, the United States Forest Service and has successfully guided these Girl Scout back pack-burro trips for the past four years.

Several years ago, your correspondent, and others who knew this wilderness area well, con-

Letter To Editor

ANNEXATION

To the Editor,
The Carmel Pine Cone

My Dear Marjory Lloyd:

As a resident of one of the several areas adjacent to Carmel, I wholeheartedly agree with the major premise of Thomas K. Perry's interview in your issue of July 2, responding to statements of Frank Putnam's relative to "parasitic growth," in your issue of June 25. On some points I disagree with both gentlemen.

As an officer and director of the organization known as Carmel Unincorporated, I should like to make it clear to everyone that the recent meeting of the directors was decided upon prior to any knowledge of Mr. Putnam's views.

The sole purpose of our meeting was to discuss reactivation of the organization; to review our original aims and purposes and decide in what manner we might now be of aid to each area regarding local problems. Our purpose also was to explore matters affecting the entire community, including the city of Carmel, and decide what support we could contribute in this realm. Tom Perry appointed a committee to further delve into our participation in these particular matters.

In numerous instances this kind of support (such as the rerouting of Highway One) has been of real value to the outside areas as well as to Carmel, as the Carmel Citizens Committee well knows.

During our meeting some two or three did mention the article about annexation but the subject was not officially discussed. I have an open mind on the subject, in the absence of facts. However, the contiguous areas have much better police and fire protection than they realize. True, at times of some important night events at Monterey fairgrounds, the sheriff's office finds itself short-handed; otherwise the cars regularly make their rounds of the outside areas. And it is remarkable how quickly the forestry department on Carmel Hill can reach a fire.

If Frank Putnam is in earnest about desiring to annex one or all of the adjacent areas, let me suggest that studying it be a job for some paid, independent organization and not local committees. I think this should be instigated by Carmel. Otherwise we will not have an accurate analysis to present to the voters. Such is needed before discussing probable benefits and tax rates.

Finally, though the Carmel police and fire departments are better than those of most comparable cities, I visualize greatly increased personnel and an entirely new municipal complex to handle these and the other essential services, due to the magnitude of this proposal, desirable as it may be to the village.

Sincerely,
James H. Parks

ceived the idea of burro-pack trips for Girl Scouts wherein they would be given a true wilderness experience with guide and counselors who were eager to share their knowledge and enthusiasm with them. On this, and former trips the girls learn to care for the burros, feed them, saddle them, pack them, and as Whitie, Rosa, Snorter, Red, George, Cocoa and Jezebel, move about the camp or are engaged in carrying gear and food from camp to camp, they are showered with affection and attention.

New Play Opens At Circle July 17

"Dark of the Moon," by Howard Richardson and William Berney, is set for a July 17 opening at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. The Fresno State College theatre workshop, under the direction of Charles Randall, will present the play with the help of a contingent of popular local actors and musicians.

Joe Broadman, Carmel Valley

nearness of a boar or deer, snakes ahead on the trail, or the approach of a stranger to camp.

The success and growing popularity of these adventures is, in large measure, attributed to the careful, long-range planning of the complete program. Early in the year trails and camping areas are decided upon, and visited, equipment lists, menus and food lists prepared. Camp fare is a pleasant balance between prepared, dried foods, dehydrated soups, fruit punches, etc., and fresh products, such as meat, fruit and vegetables.

The experience of getting to know the Santa Lucia Mountains, is a thrilling and rewarding one for girls and counselors and is made even more enjoyable because of the excellent trails and camp sites found in this area. The splendid work done by the personnel of the United States Forest Service is appreciated. It has added immeasurably to the groups pleasure and safety as they explore and use these wild areas.

folksinger, has arranged and will perform a sequence of authentic songs designed to link the scenes of the play. Many of them are directly involved in the action, which is set in the Great Smokey Mountains, and includes a country dance and a revival meeting. Banjo player Keith Nelson will also provide some of the musical background.

The ballad of Barbara Allen was the inspiration for "Dark of the Moon," which concerns a witch-boy transformed into a human so that he can marry the beautiful but promiscuous mountain girl. Humor, fantasy and tragedy are blended in this unusual play, which had an enormous success on Broadway, and was later produced in England by the great British director, Peter Brook.

Only three weekends will comprise the run of "Dark of the Moon," which plays Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through August 2. It will be followed by a second workshop production, Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life," which is now being cast. "Patience," the Gilbert and Sullivan opus now enjoying a great success at the Circle, will close on Sunday evening.

VISIT FRONTIER VILLAGE

"It was a long trip, but worth it!" Mrs. Ray Ramsey reports about the visit she made last week with her children, Chipper and Jonny, to Frontier Village, a replica of a Western settlement in the 1890's, situated near San Jose.

Art News . .

Gerald Wasserman, whose recent showing of his impressionist paintings and sculptures in the Carmel Rancho Community Room won critical praise, is having a current show in Santa Ana's civic Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum. The exhibit opened July 4 and will continue through July 26. Gerald and Mrs. Wasserman traveled south for the preview and stopped on the way home to visit friends at Laguna Beach.

Artist James Peter Cost plans to come to Carmel to live and paint. Until recently he was a high school art teacher in the Los Angeles school system.

He has won many awards in Southern California shows for his contemporary oils and his pictures are included in the alumni center show at the University of Southern California.

He spent his early childhood in Maine, then came to California and graduated from Redondo Union High School. He obtained a bachelor's degree from UCLA and a master's degree in art from the University of Southern California. He has taught for the past 14 years.

He says his current representational style is in keeping with the recent trend away from "contemporary" to "abstract realism."

"When untrained children, goats, monkeys and even worms can win awards then it's time for the pendulum to swing the other way," he says.

For the past three years he has been concentrating on seascapes and these have been exhibited in Carmel at the Artists Guild of America.

An ocean lover, he spent three years in the Coast Guard, with 30 months overseas duty, and has won over 25 trophies in sailboat racing. In 1963, he took first place in the national Victory championships.

Mr. Cost will move to Carmel from his waterfront studio in Long Beach late this summer with his wife and daughter.

Oil paintings of Polynesia will continue on exhibit at the American Federation of Arts gallery on Lincoln south of Ocean through Friday.

On July 10, a show of photographic prints by Larry Colwell will open in the same location and continue until August 10. This show will feature studies of Mallorcan and other gypsies.

On July 18, the local A.F.A. chapter will hold its Artists' Studio Open House Tour from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tickets are available at chapter headquarters on Lincoln Street.

A new show of members' work opened at the Carmel Art Association Gallery July 2. John Cunningham headed the hanging committee for the exhibition which will continue all month.

Mr. Cunningham also made arrangements for the showing of 34 paintings by members of the association at the Monterey County Fairgrounds during the recent three-day convention of the California Society of Certified Public Accountants in the new agricultural hall.

A Carmel artist, Girard F. Aken, has one of his paintings on exhibition in the 12th annual Mother Lode Art Exhibition which will continue through July 11.

Artists and craftsmen who wish to compete for prizes totaling more than $10,000 offered by the art department of the California State Fair must meet a July 11 entry deadline.

Edward J. Lynam, arts exhibit supervisor, says prizes total $3,450 for oil paintings, watercolors and prints; $875 for sculpture; and $3,285 for ceramics, enameling and mosaics, metal work, jewelry and textiles.

Prizes available to entries in the college level art student classes total $2,625.

Upper Floors Of Hearst Castle Opened Monday

Starting on Monday, the upper floors of La Casa Grande, the former residence of William Randolph Hearst at San Simeon, were opened to the public.

The California Division of Beaches and Parks announces this was the first time that the Doges Suite, the Gothic Suite, the main library, the del la Robbia Room, the tower, rooms and some others at the state historical monument have been added to existing tours of the lower floor and garden.

Reservations must be made for each ten-person tour of the three upper floors of the home of the famed publisher which was given to the state by his sons.

Small buses will follow the main 53-passenger bus which transports visitors to the Hearst Castle from the parking lot near Highway One for tours of the lower floor and garden. There will be 40 tours each day during July, August and September through Labor Day beginning at 8:24 a.m. and ending at 4:12 p.m.

Reservations may be made by writing to Public Tours Reservation Office, Department of Parks and Recreation, Box 2390, Sacramento. Cost of the tour of the upper floors, named La Casa blanks can be obtained by writing Mr. Lymah at Box 2036, Sacramento, California 95809.

The Carmel Art Association has hung a new exhibit at Community Hospital.

The 15 artists whose work is displayed are all members of the Carmel Art Association. They are Isabel Branson Cartwright, Richard Lofton, Ferdinand Burgdorff, Frank M. Moore, Rada, Victor DiGesú, Jay Hannah, Janet Ament, Sam Harris, Pat Carey, Taylor Dunwoody, Ruth A. Buffington, Virginia Conroy, Beth Garcia and Elise de Celles Beaton.

Grande Tour, will be $4.00 for adults and $2.00 for children six to 12 years of age. Children under six will be admitted free if there are vacant seats on the buses.

MUSICAL PROGRAM, DISCUSSION GROUP AT TOWN HOUSE

Louis Fragos, violinist, will give a concert at Carmel Foundation Town House on Wednesday at 3 p.m. He will be accompanied on the piano by Wade Parks.

On Sunday afternoon, 2-4 p.m., the twice-monthly discussion group will meet from 2-4 p.m. at Town House to study Latin American problems.

All interested persons are invited to both programs, also to the teas which follow them.

City Council Accepts United California Bank Bid For Sunset Bonds

(Continued From Page One) Forest Theater may be used to its maximum potential with the least expenditure, the council last night approved refinishing the outdoor stage ($400); repair of benches and grounds ($1,000); building and grounds maintenance ($500); two additional acoustical shells ($350); employment of a theater manager ($500); employment of an equipment operator ($200); piano rental ($50); advertising, posters, etc. ($150); program and production expense ($250); one symphony concert ($725); six puppet performances ($300); utilities ($150).

The council also agreed to spend $1,500 in a cooperative project with the Community Theater. The city will furnish materials, and the drama group labor, except for necessary sandblasting, to put the Theater-in-the-Ground into usable shape. The repairs to the small indoor theater under the stage will include reconditioning and waterproofing walls and a new dimming panel to replace the hazardous one now in use.

The council also agreed to lease the Theater-in-the-Ground to the Community Theater for one year for a rental of one dollar, with an option to renew the lease.

POLICE STATION

Presented to the council last night by Burde, Shaw Associates were plans for a new police station at Mission and Seventh, also a new corporation yard and street department and public works building on Junipero above Fourth.

In the midst of apparently favorable discussion of this proposed $225,000 construction Frank Putnam, chairman of the Sunset Committee, threw a monkey wrench.

He asked the council whether or not approval of plans for a new police station and corporation yard on the suggested sites meant that members of his committee must not consider including municipal facilities in the future development of Sunset.

Mr. Putnam said that his group had been charged by Mayor Herbert Blanks with exploring all possible uses of the school complex after it becomes city property next year.

The Sunset Committee will report on feasible uses of the school and its site on September 15 at a joint meeting of the city council and planning commission. Mr. Putnam reminded the council.

Considering this, and Mr. Putnam's remarks, despite urgent pleas from Police Commissioner James Buffington for action, the council placed the matter of a new police station, also a street department and public works facility, on the consent calendar until September.

In other action last night, the council approved the transfer of $50,467 to the general fund from the street improvement, motor vehicle, traffic and tree planting funds. This was routine end-of-the-fiscal-year procedure.

Approval was given a $5 per hour pay rate for special duty police officers, with no duty to be less than two hours.

Employment of Charles Grimshaw as a part-time fireman, and Doris F. Clement in the building inspector's office; advancement of Police Officer Peter F. Koenen; and permanent employment of Richard G. Thomas as building inspector were approved.

Fire chief Robert E. Smith and Fireman Joseph Benevent were told by the mayor they were "a credit to Carmel" for taking a course in the handling and disposal of explosives. He also awarded them completion certificates.

Pacific Telephone was given

Carmel Department Busiest Reports Fire Chief Smith

(Continued From Page One) fires. Third (12), were calls to trash pile fires. Fourth (8), were fires on vacant lots. Six calls were made because of ruptured gas pipes. Gas washdowns accounted for 76 of the 109 automobile calls. Electrical calls amounted to 30.

Ambulance calls from the city totaled 101. Calls to the Carmel Unincorporated area amounted to 66.

"As a result of studies made during the past year, we probably will ask the National Board of Fire Underwriters to make a new survey of the city in an effort to once again lower insurance rates," Chief Smith says in his report to the council.

AT SUMMER SCHOOL

Summer session at Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Oregon, have attracted students from Alaska, the Midwest, several foreign countries and California. Among them is Alexandra Pratt of Carmel, the daughter of Mrs. Frances Pratt.

PUPPY MATCH THIS WEEKEND

The Salinas Valley Kennel Club will hold a puppy match Sunday in the Gene Robertson Ball Park on East Alisal Street, Salinas. This will be an American Kennel Club sanctioned event. Entries will be taken on the grounds from 10 a.m. until noon. Judging will start at 1 p.m. Spectators will be admitted free and refreshments will be available on the grounds which have plenty of parking.

Repeat Swim Show At Saddle Mountain

Despite unfavorable weather conditions and a small turnout, the "Send Our Swimmers" Committee pronounced the SOS Show last Friday night a success, and announced that the show will be repeated with additional talent next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. at Saddle Mountain Ranch in Carmel Valley. No admission will be charged this time, but contributions will be accepted.

The committee sponsored the show to raise funds to send two members of the championship Ordettes Synchronized Swim Team to the Senior National AAU Championships in Albany, New York, July 16-19. Marsha and Marilyn Lane of Carmel Valley have been selected to represent the Peninsula at this event.

Ordettes Coach Donn Squires says, "We are still a long way from our goal. We would like to invite the financial support of peninsula clubs and organizations. Any help would be most welcome."

Squire said that any interested organization may obtain further information by calling Del Neel at MA. 4-3849, or contributions may be mailed directly to SOS, Box 2079, Carmel.

Russian Film At MPC Tomorrow Free to Public

"The Inspector General," a Russian film featuring the entire cast of the Moscow Art Theater, is tomorrow's offering of the Monterey Peninsula College summer film series.

Adapted from the original play by Nikolai Gogol, the satire of provincial corruption in Czarist Russia will be screened once, at 8 p.m., in the MPC Music Hall.

The public is invited to attend without charge. No tickets will be required for admission.

permission to place an underground telephone conduit from Junipero and Eighth along Mountain View to the city limits. This will remove some existing overhead wires in the Eighty Acres area.

CHILDREN'S ART WORKSHOP

Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula is giving two summer workshops for students gifted in the field of art from the entire Peninsula.

One is being held at Carmel High School July 14 and 16 (2:45-4:30 p.m.). Volunteer instructors are Glenn Powell and Virginia Blair Hannon. Chairmen for this are Mrs. Arthur Strasburger, Jr., and Mrs. John Livingstone.

The only charge is $1.00 from each child toward the cost of supplies. All other expense is met from funds given by the MPYS. Forty-four children, grades 5 to 9, selected by the schools as having special talent, are participating.

Local Artists Open Studios And Homes For July 18 AFA Tour

Pictures, enamel work, stitchery, mosaics and ceramics as well as flower arrangements are all promised for the Artists' Studio Open House event on July 18, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The tour is being presented for the fourth year by the local chapter of the American Federation of Arts.

At the Stuyvesant Fish ranch with its breathtaking view flower arrangements by Virginia Nielson will be shown (she has written books on the subject), and visitors will be invited to sample the delicious wild boar meat which is a product of the ranch.

Camera artist Ansel Adams will show his world famous photography in a magnificent ocean-side studio. Mrs. Lloyd Tevis will, with Geza St. Galy, show the art of mosaics and ceramics in her studio. Here guests will take refreshment in a beautiful old garden neighboring Carmel Mission Basilica with Father Junipero Serra's original house as background.

Tour goes will also view Joe Feuerborn's vivid paintings; the work of talented marine and landscape artist Jessie Quigley; unique enamel-on-copper jewelry by Ruth Buol; the fascinating stitchery of Joan Schwartz; paintings and tiles by Ephraim Doner; design sets, landscapes, still-life and abstract paintings by Charles Thomas and Ruth Alan Jordan.

Tickets, at $3.00, are available at the American Federation of Arts Carmel gallery at Lincoln and Ocean, and will also be sold at each tour stop on July 18 while the event is in progress. All points to be visited are included in the area below Carmel Mission through Carmel Highlands and will be clearly marked. Walking shoes are recommended for those participating in the event.

Carmel Memories . . .

Mr. and Mrs. George Wishart for many years operated an Ocean Avenue bakery. They are now retired. Recently one of their 16 grandchildren, Peggy Hill of Sleepy Hollow, San Anselmo, 11 years old, sent them a poem she had written. It is printed below.

Carmel
The best place I could ever be
Would be Carmel-by-the-Sea.
The waves there thunder, crash and roar
And so they will forevermore.
And if I were to leave the sea
Another place I'd like to be.
Not right now, but years ago,
It was the best one. That I know!
Now let's see if you can guess?
This place was not a mess.
This place smelled very good.
It smelled of cakes but not of wood.
Do you know what this place
could be?
It was Grandpa's bakery!

The young poetess is the daughter of the Wishart's daughter, Emma Anne.

REPORT FROM PORTUGAL

Gabrielle Kuster writes of the enchantment of Portugal in her own inimitable manner.

"I set out for Cascais with a taxi driver who spoke nothing but Portuguese and seemed impelled to drive madly up to the car ahead, or to pedestrians crossing, and stop in the nick of time with a satisfying sound of screaming brakes. Horns went incessantly from all quarters, also the zoom of motorcycles—with some ratchet-like sound that can be added at the expense of a little speed—and I've since learned that only by attention to these ear-piercing blasts can one avoid certain death, for speed is never slackened.

"We passed fashionable Estoril and soon came to the blue bay and winding cobbled lanes of Cascais, lurching to a stop in a lane too narrow for more than one car and in front of the Solar De Dom Carlos. This Estalagem (privately-owned hotel) belongs to an English couple, Richard and Audrey Carr, escapees from the dreadful English weather. They have made a charming place for guests in this 18th Century manor house, cherishing the decorative walls and ceiling of the gracious diningroom, and the parqueted floors throughout. But the center of activity, and a magnet for us all, is the rambling English garden, where typical bushes, shrubs and flowers grow to a height undreamed of in their native land. Lemon, nectarine and plum trees dot the lawns. And the circles of earth around these, filled to running over with flowers, embroider the lawns riotously. A huge Rock-rose, distant cousin of our conifers, drops tassels twelve inches long, which are harvested and burned at Christmas time. Straight as our redwoods and very tall, it can be seen from as far away as Estoril. I'll write later about what happened to me next day."

MPC President Says Education Should Be A Community Catalyst

Technical and semi-professional education is another need for the future, Dr. Faul emphasizes. In this field he admits Monterey Peninsula College's program is not as broad as the majority of junior colleges.

"We must not have education geared to unemployment," he says.

He cited courses in ornamental horticulture as an example of service education applied to new concepts such as cluster development. There is a need for trained people to handle and maintain open space, he points out.

We must realize, also, he stressed, that all people do not fit the same mold and a college must offer a variety of education.

"Our main interest should be the education of individuals, not masses," he states.

The evening lecture series at MPC, Dr. Faul says have been outstanding and provided the leadership in this field followed by junior colleges all over the state.

"The quality of the MPC faculty is excellent and the faculty makes the institution," Dr. Faul declares.

"But there is no question but that MPC has limited financial resources and that means the college is limited as to the things it can do," he added.

Dr. Faul comes to Carmel from Richmond where he has been president of Contra Costa College for six years and an administrator for 15 years. Before this he was associated with College of the Sequoias. He was born in Santa Ana 45 years ago and graduated from Santa Ana Junior College before obtaining a bachelor's degree from Stanford University. Following World War II, he returned to Stanford for a master's degree in counseling and student personnel. In 1954 he earned a doctor of education degree from Stanford.

His wife, Patricia, has taken an active interest in community affairs in Richmond. She has served as local president of the Campfire Girls, been a member of the same organization's national board. She was a charter member of a citizens advisory committee on special interests and particularly interested in the development of culturally disadvantaged children. She also is a past president, and life member, of the PTA and has served as head of the western region of the United Crusade. An elementary school teacher, Mrs. Faul had to relinquish a contract to teach in the Richmond area to come here.

"Already," says Dr. Faul, "she has become interested in Pioneer House in Seaside." (This nursery school has been opened recently for culturally disadvantaged children).

This week Robert came home from Boy Scout camp and Alison from Campfire Girls camp. They will both enter Carmel schools this fall.

CROSBY FUND DONATION TO COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

Community Hospital has just received a $25,000 check from the Bing Crosby Fund. The money is to be used to help establish a cobalt therapy department for the treatment of cancer at the hospital atop Carmel Hill—total cost $150,000.

Hospital trustees have authorized preliminary architectural and engineering studies for the department. No construction date has been set.

Donations for the new department may be sent to Community Hospital Cobalt Fund, Box HH, Carmel.

Saddle bronc riding is the classic event of any rodeo and will be seen at its best at the California Rodeo at Salinas, July 16 through 19.

Citizens Committee Report Says Now Is Time For Annexation

(Continued From Page One) mass of basic data on acreage, voting precincts, assessed values, number of assessments and registered voters, analysis of tax rates, costs of service. All of this information is available to interested persons, Admiral Fisher says.

The report shows that should Carmel Point, the Mission Tract, the Walker Tract, Mission Fields, all of Hatton Fields, Carmel Woods, Carmel Hills, South Carmel Hills, Carmel Knolls, Rancho Rio Vista, Handley Hills and the Valley mouth area, including the shopping center and junior high school, be annexed to Carmel the enlarged city's tax rate, according to present assessment of property, would be 96 cents per $100 assessed valuation as compared to the 1963-64 Carmel tax of 94 1/2 cents.

This would mean only a one and a half cent city tax raise to property owners within the present city limits.

In the 15 county taxing areas outside Carmel included in the list above there would be varying tax increases. They are as follows: Mission Fields, $1.29 and 95 cents (two specific taxing areas in this locality); Hatton Fields, 95 cents; Mission Tract, 95 cents; Walker Tract, 95 cents; Carmel Point, 91 cents; Carmel Woods, 95 cents, $1.15, and 92 cents (three taxing areas); Carmel Hills, $1.29 and 95 cents (two taxing areas); Carmel Knolls, $1.29; South Carmel Hills, 95 cents; Handley Hills, 95 cents; Rancho Rio Vista, $1.35; Valley mouth area $1.29, near school 95 cents, shopping center, $1.35.

The above tax increases would be added to existing county, school, junior college, county library, flood control and water conservation, airport, sanitary district, garbage and refuse, and city service taxes now paid by the areas outside the city. Carmel taxpayers pay the above taxes also except for the city services tax of four cents on Carmel Point and three cents in Carmel Woods.

Carmel's total tax rate is now 6.37 1/2 per $100 property valuation. The total tax for the enlarged city, as proposed above, would be $6.38.

The $6.38 tax for all areas of the proposed unification would cover annexation costs estimated in the Carmel Citizens Committee report as follows: fire department, $56,540; police department, $39,850; city clerk, $4,080; street department, $85,200; building inspector, $6,900; city engineer, $2,250; library, $15,000; civil defense, $1,000.

The city now has the advantage of the above services but the outside areas do not.

The citizens committee report points out that the outside areas depend on the state fire patrol station on top of Carmel Hill for fire protection. If the equipment of this station is out on a call the outside areas then have to rely on fire trucks coming from as far away as Castroville, Gonzales, Carmel Valley, Monterey or Carmel Highlands. Carmel's fire department cannot respond, except to schools of the Carmel Unified School District.

Therefore, should the outside areas come into the city, their fire insurance rates would drop. According to figures in the report, this drop would vary for a house and contents insured for $28,000, from $9 to $56.57 per year depending on proximity to existing state fire protection. These figures were compiled according to the manual used by Monterey insurance agencies.

The report further indicates that the Sheriff's office has a one-man patrol car assigned to police the residential areas contiguous to Carmel from 4 p.m. until 2 a.m. but this car also has to police the coast below Carmel. Should these areas join Carmel they would be protected by their own police department and receive prompt attention at all times.

At present the same areas report automobile accidents to the California Highway Patrol office in Seaside. City police would also take over this work should the outside areas come into the city.

The area of Carmel is 560 acres, that of the unincorporated areas surrounding it 1,211 acres, according to the report. This includes Carmel Mission Basilica and the Valley mouth area.

The Valley area has been included in the citizens committee report on annexation because, should this area join the city, first, Carmel will then have the direction of future residential and commercial development, also of the desired greenbelt east of the junior high; second, additional revenue from this area in licenses and sales taxes will considerably help support and maintain the proposed unification.

Carmel's total budget this year was $588,112. Of this $180,967 was derived from property taxes on the city's $18,199,490 assessed value. Other revenue, $407,145 came from licenses, fines, sales tax, gas tax and motor vehicle tax.

Total assessed value of all unincorporated property in the proposed unification study is $15,239,805. Together with Carmel this amounts to $33,439,295 to form the unification's property tax base.

An enlarged city would also have an enlarged income from sales tax, auto licenses, gas tax funds, police fines, fees and franchises, the report stresses.

The voting potential of Carmel to the unincorporated areas, according to a tabulation of registered voters in the report, is Carmel, 3,035; outside areas, 2,703, or 332 more registered vot-

MPVS News . . .

A highlight of the general membership meeting of Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the USO in Monterey will be the presentation of a check to Thomas E. Tonkin, administrator of the Community Hospital. The check represents a combined effort by MPVS members and volunteer workers from the Community Hospital during the month of June to earn money to be used in the purchase of technical equipment.

Mrs. Charles M. Jett, president, will conduct the meeting, and all members are urged to attend since it is the last meeting prior to the presentation of the 13th Annual House and Garden Tour for the benefit of the Visiting Nurse Association on July 15.

Gardens and homes will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and will feature properties in the Monterey Mesa and Carmel Meadows areas. Tickets will be available at all gardens or can be purchased at all Monterey and Carmel flower shops for $2.50.

ers in the city limits than outside.

In conclusion the Carmel Citizens Committee report states,

"The important thing, which will benefit all of us in the long run, is the unification of this choice area under a single government dedicated to the preservation of the things we hold dear, and in which we all can participate . . . control our own future."
